

it was probably 6 years ago this month that i saw this video. it made me dig and ask questions. it started me down a path i would have never expected. next week i close a deal on a building i have been eyeing for years. i used to think that if i won the lottery one day i would buy it, run my gym out of it and make art in my spare time. i didn't win the lottery - but because of the people around me i found the strength and the schemes to make it work. to everyone who made this possible, i will do everything i can to be worthy of your sacrifices and your faith.

-burkey